Sponsored by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Internal Revenue Service Criminal Investigation Division, the United States Postal Inspection Service, the Oregon Department of Public Safety Standards and Training, the Southern Oregon Financial Fraud and Security Team, the Northwest Fraud Investigator's Association, the Oregon Department of Justice, and the United States Attorney's Office, it promises to be the best yet!

The conference is open to law enforcement officers and prosecutors; fraud investigators and security officers for financial institutions; internal auditors for public agencies; and private-sector personnel who assist law enforcement in the investigation of financial crimes. Conference topics will include credit card fraud, mortgage fraud, asset tracing, digital and financial forensics, a search and seizure law update, and trends associated with fraud.

The cost for the three-day conference is only $100.00 which covers all course materials, three luncheons, and all coffee/snack breaks. A limited number of rooms have been reserved at the rate of $92.00 for a single and $112.00 for a double. For room reservations, call 1-800-543-8266 and reference the Financial Crimes Conference. Early registration is recommended.
